FIRE CHIEF FAVORS

W. H. Glore Returns Home Convinced That Horses Are Out of Date And Expensive.

After an absence of a month, during which he visited and inspected the fire departments of a dozen eastern cities, Chief W. H. Glore of the Sait Lake fire department returned home last night, convinced that Sait Lake is but little, if at all behind the times in its fire-fighting ability.

During his trip Chief Glore visited Chicago, Grand Rapids, where he attended the convention of the International Association of Chief Engineers of the fire departments of the United of the fire departments of the United States and Canada, Duluth. Toledo, Springfield, Dayton, Cincinati and Hamilton, O., and Covington and Newport, Ky., and other cities en route. His observations were summed up in the terse remark: "I didn't see anything that boat Sail Lakes for density. thing that beat Sait Lake's fire depart-

"Salt Lake's present fire department in every respect." Chief Giore continued, "is as good as anything I saw, and in some respects better. In the matter of responding to an alarm there are none of them that can beat us. In the way of equipment and apparatus, some of the eastern departments have newer stuff but none better than what we have got. Still, that doesn't take away the fact that I have contended that we should have more apparatus. that we should have more apparatus, and the visit through the eastern cities has impressed me more strongly that especially with our high buildings is a water tower.

The automobile is going to figure "The automobile is going to figure targely in new equipment, and while it may seem a broad statement, I will venture to say that there will never be another order placed by the large rities for a horse hose or chemical wagen. The advantages of the automobile are far too apparent. For instance, the main cost of a fire department after the apparatus is the expense of feeding, caring for the horses, etc. Now feeding, caring for the horses, etc. Now with an automobile, the first cost e last cost with the exception of what few repairs may be needed, and the cost of running to a fire. With the present equipment of horses, etc., there is the cost of horses, the care of them and their feeding; the horses have to have stalls, and in one way and an-other there is a continual expense. With an automobile the cost of the station is reduced by the fact that far less room is needed and the daily ex-pense of the horses is eliminated.

Another big factor in favor of the automobile is this: Supposing either I or Asst. One of the first matters to meet the attention of Chief Glore upon his return was the "hazing" escapade of a few nights ago in which Gordon Snow, day that he had not yet had time to go into the matter thoroughly but would make a complete investigation. While deprecating the actions of the men implicated, the chief said that he could not at this time say whether or not charges would be filed against them, but made the assurance that they would taken to task and the amende hon-

UNIVERSITY NEWS

The first meeting of the faculty the Utah university was to be held, this afternoon, at which matters of im-portance in connection with the opening of school were to be considered.

Returning students will notice many changes, both in the buildings and on the grounds. The interiors of all the buildings have been painted and cement walks have been laid to the various buildings from the main walk. The laboratory building has been fitted up with about $300 worth of additional ap-paratus, and the machine shop has been theroughly overhauled, and a new cuting and grinding machine has been installed. The shop will be under the direction of William Forsberg, who will be assisted by G. V. Anderson.

A great change will also be noticed this year in registration. The fee will be $12, with a reduction to $10 to those who register Sept. 16, 17 and 18. In addition to this fee there will be one of $5 which will be used for student activities, as voted by the students last year.

Among the changes in the teaching and clerical forces of the school may be mentioned the appointment of Miss Jennie Home to the position of regis-trar. The position of William Blum, as trar. The position of William Blum, as instructor in chemistry, which he resigned to go to the University of Washington, will be filled by Kenneth Williams. Dr. McJenkin will take Dr. Ross Andersen's place at the head of the department of bacteriology and pathology, and Professor A. A. Nowiton will be associate professor of physics in the place of Dr. Leon Hartman. B. B. Betchuni will fill the position of associate professor of civil engineering.

The postoffice has also been remodele ner, amounting to about 200 volumes.

Provost C. C. Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania, and Robert R. Goodrich, professor of metallurgy at the University of Arizona, were recent visitors to the university. Both men expressed satisfaction at the equipment of the Utah university.

THE ROUND OF THE THEATERS

a regular British reunion behind the scenes at the Orpheum last night. Three of the best acts on the bill claim al legiance to King Edward and while they are not quite so "speedy" as some of the American turns presented, they give more satisfaction to the hypercritical. There are too many good offerings in the first baif to keep up the pace, but throughout, the bill is better than the average, with but one exception. Beth Stone, the "topapy-turvy toe dancer," opens the entertainment in a good act, to be followed by the three musical Johnsons, who are essentially the xest xylophone players heard here Ineli renation of Suppe's overture from "The roet and Peasant," with the essistance of the cells in the orchestra. assistance of the cello in the orcnestra, is a gem. Griff, "London's tavorite jugsling jesting Johne," is distinctly runny with a line of patter that is very much out of the generally accepted rut. It is not so much what he does as the way he does it that makes the unbounded hit. By way of going to the other extreme Schrode and Mulvey present a rough-house" act which is called "A Theatrical Agency." The two work "A Theatrical Agency." The two work hard, both as dancers and knock-about comedians, and the fashion in which the man throws Lizzie Mulvey around the stage is a source of deep and abid-ing joy to the gallery, as is also the beer-keg incident. Herbert and Willing beer-keg incident. Herbert and Willing are another brace of hard workers, they appear in black face and make a successful bid for popularity. The bill closes with Sam Watson's farmyard circus, a 'quaint English novelty introducing Sam as a coster driving his 'moke,' superted by a capable company of dogs, four crowing roosters that are screams, cats, a lamb, 'the little pink pig' that is in a chronic state of vociferous appeal for the every-ready feeding bottle, a couple of geese, a policeman and a buil dog. The tout ensemble can be imagined. Welhe's orchestra, too, is not the least of the attractions which go to make up a good tractions which go to make up a good evening's entertainment marred by one act which carries the caption of "Love a la Mode." GRAND.-"Soldiers of Fortune," absorbing story written by Richard Harding Davis, has always been popular in Salt Lake since Robert Edeson starred in it at the Salt Lake theater, and the production at the Grand by the Willard Mack company is proving no exception to the rule. The perno exception to the rule. The per-formance last evening was greeted by a large and interested audience and made a distinct hit.

Mr. Mack has been seen here in many characters, but it is doubtful if he has done anything better than his portrayal of the part of Robert Clay. He is at all times natural and consistent and in the stronger scenes there is a and in the stronger scenes there is a gratifying absence of flery heroics. A clever piece of acting is done by Frederick Allen in the part of MacWilliams and his rendition of that role would be difficult to improve upon. The same can be said of James Rennie as Capt. Stuart, Elmer Rooth as Teddy and Stuart, Elmer Rooth as Teddy and Harry Blanchard as Mr. Langham.

Miss Douglas as Hope Langham, plays the part with her usual care and idelity. Miss Due in the part of Alice Langham could improve considerably by speaking her lines more to the audience than to the back of the stage.

The play is well staged all the parts.

The play is well staged, all the parts in capable hands and there was not a moment during the action of the story last evening when the audience was not deeply interested

BUNGALOW .- The Arington players are fast winning their way and have already made a good impression on the theater-going public. A sign of this was the onthusiasm exhibited by the well filled house at the Bungalow theater last night. In "Raffles" the players make a better appearance than in anything given thus far. Every one of the persons who takes heat some to be ersons who takes part seems to be well fitted for the place.

John Ince as Raffles gives a good impersonation of that meh-talked-of individual, whose handiwork in the art of annexing loose change, baffing those sent to spy upon him, and whose high sense of humor made the part figure sense of numer made the part famous and an excellent vehicle for some of the best artists in the United States. chance to show his ability. As Capt. Beifford, the detective, Charles J. Harris is able to make the part one of the strongest in the program. Harold Kennedy also has a good role in Manders. He is able to fittingly care for it.

Miss Bertha Creighton acts well as Gwendolyn Couron, and the role fits her to a nicety. Miss Frances Brandt and the other members of the company handle their parts so well that a visit to the Bungalow this week will make one feel like calling again. Raffles will run throughout the week.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Lippman stock is said to be waning in his own camp. Some of his asso-clates and former partisans claim tha ciates and former partisans claim that Joe has been misrepresenting things in asserting that such men as Col. E. A. Wall and ex-Mayor Ezra Thompson were "for" Mim. The fact that Col. Wall signed the letter to Mayor Bransford asking him to consent to run again is evidence that the claim made that he was a Lippman supporter is a misrepresentation, while a conversation between Lippman and ex-Mayor misrepresentation, while a conversion between Lippman and ex-May Thompson said to have occurred Main street just below Second yesterday afternoon would in that "Ez" is not "for Lipp Passersby saw Lippman stor Thompson and heard him ask:

you tell me, Mr. Thompson, whom you are supporting for mayor?"
"I am supporting Bransford," replied

"Can't I get as many votes as Bransford?" persisted Lippman.
"I don't know how many votes you can get." Mr. Thompson is reported to have said, "but I do know one vote that you can't get." And with that he walked away.

In a spectacular runaway this foreoon a team attached to a leaded meat wagon belonging to Lee's cash market created havoc along West Temple street this morning by crashing into an utomobile and overturning a as well as nearly wreckings the loaded wagon behind them.

The team had been left standing in

The team had been left standing in front of the store at 62 West First South street, with the hitching weight fastened. In the absence of the driver, and evidently, the insufficient weight, the horses started off on a walk until they reached West Temple street, when they took fright, and began their frantic dash down the street. First colliders with an automobile, they could be a supposed to the control of t ing with an automobile, they crashed into the buggy of I. Cline, which was standing on West Temple street near Second South street. The buggy was upset and almost demolished, and the force of the impact tore a wheel off the heavily loaded meat wagon. The collision checked the speed of the runaway team, enabling bystanders to catch and hold the horses.
